

Body Painting

There are vehicle owners to whom the choice of vehicle make, model & colour is insufficient expression of personal taste and style. Body panels, fuel tanks, doors and any other flat surface can merely be viewed as a canvas that provides the opportunity for the application of personalised artwork. With some vehicles, the artwork is so extensive as to cover the entire body area!

A variety of techniques can be used from basic transfers, through to unique airbrushed artwork. Many of the vehicle graphics vendors provide a computer design service and utilise vinyl graphics to produce a sheet transfer or 'wrap' effect.

Much of the American inspired artwork is deeply symbolic and includes the portrayal of Native American Indian and Wild West scenes as well as eagles although in some cases the emergence of more recent film characters form the basis for the pictorial scene.

The quality of much of this work is astounding and certainly comparable to that seen at any good art gallery. Motor homes are particular targets mainly due to the expanse of relatively flat body area that is free from disruption by obtrusive features, although the range of vehicles used as the basis for vehicle graphics extends to cars, day vans, bikes & trucks as can be seen from these photos taken from last year's event.
